What's New In?

The Abstract Classical radio sidebo... The Weekly ClassicRock radio widget offers great features and has a beautiful, intuitive interface.
The functionality and features are quite similar to the Abstract Classical radio sidebar gadget (linked at the end of this article). There are, however, a few key differences. However, first let's briefly set up your widget for playing music: (1)Click on the WIDGET tab on the top right corner of the widget; (2)When the WIDGET tab is open, click on the DEFAULT radio button near the top; (3)You will see a list of radio stations available for this widget. In this list, you will see all radio stations that I have "tagged" (added keywords to) as being Classic Rock, one-word stations as being Classic Rock, stations with the artist name of Classic Rock, and stations with the word Classic Rock somewhere in the station name. (4)At the bottom of the list, you have two options:

- 1)Select the radio stations you would like to hear automatically (If you have subscribed to my RSS feed, you can select just those stations from the list of music radio stations offered by LibSyn. If you have not yet subscribed to my RSS feed, you will need to select which stations you want to hear from the list offered by LibSyn);
- 2)Select the radio stations you would like to hear from LibSyn (If you have subscribed to my RSS feed, you will need to select from the list offered by LibSyn. If you have not yet subscribed to my RSS feed, you can select just those stations from the list offered by LibSyn).

(5)Click the ADD TO WIDGET button. Now that you have some music stations selected, let's do some housekeeping. (1)Click on the ICON tab on the top right corner of the widget. (2)When the ICON tab is open, click on the MANAGE ELEMENTS tab. (3)When the ELEMENTS tab is open, select the categories that you want to remove. In this widget, I selected SPEECH and SPORTS. (4)To remove a category from the widget, simply click the category in the ELEMENTS tab. (5)In order to make your widget easier to use, I suggest that you select several categories, and then click the DELETE SELECTED ELEMENTS button. You will see a message asking you
