What's New In?

Think of IcePack Builder as another frontend for IcePack. To install it, simply extract its file to a temporary directory. The available interfaces are as follows: - Main window with buttons and menus to create all relevant IcePack components. - A menu with all available systems. To access them, just click on the corresponding button of the main window. - A file browser window to select the files you wish to edit. - A scan window that checks the database for all available systems. You must press any button in order to start the scan. - The system list window that contains the list of all available reasons and ads compli. If you want to delete, copy or move, click on the main button. The other buttons can be used for the same purpose. - A log window in which you can monitor the execution of your ad code. If you want to delete, copy or move, click on the main button. - A close window button. - A scan button. This button is used to perform a full scan of the databases used by IcePack for reasons and ads. To clear the scan result or to start a new scan, click on this button. IcePack Builder Tips and Tricks: - You can still access the same menus used in IcePack by pressing the F1 key. - You can copy any reason to a temporary directory using this method: Click on "Copy to file..." in the main window and choose a directory. - You can use IcePack Builder to edit any reason from the main window. Simply click on the corresponding button and change the reason in the main window. - You can create the ad with the normal mechanisms of IcePack Builder, just by clicking on "New ad." - You can edit any ad from the main window. Simply click on the corresponding button and change the ad in the main window. - You can activate the "Code console" button to open a window where you can enter and test IcePack code. In order to exit the console, press the ENTER key. You can use IcePack Builder to create any reason or ad. You can also copy any reason from your PC to use it later. Note: It is not recommended to use IcePack Builder to manage the databases used by IcePack. The reason is that, every time you want to change some information, the program would check the databases for all reasons and ads. This might take a lot of time
