A: This is, more or less, a fake one... The yellow frames on the top are some sort of renders. They are not real frames, they are there for graphical sake and nothing else. I personally like the top corner of the screenshot a lot, and think it would be a great addition to your app screenshot. :) I also like the gradient in the left corner, which I guess is the ground under your feet. It would be nice if you added a green box with a short description to the bottom. Regarding the second screenshot, the second one is more nice to look at. It has a cooler view of the weather conditions, and a better lighting. I especially like the right corner (where the sun is) and I think it would be really nice to use it as a background for your app. :) Regarding the third screenshot, I can see a bit of nice scenery at the top and a nice sunset at the bottom. I think they look really good together. But since it is a sunset, I also think the sky should match the color of the sunset. :) I also think the shadow on the ground would be nice. A couple of minor suggestions: Make the large white part on the left a bit more transparent, so that you can see the city underneath. A slightly cleaner look would be appreciated. :) I think this is a great idea, and I really like the look of it, so congrats for the best app of the day prize! :D If you want to make it openable, you can add four buttons on the right top corner, each labeled "Left", "Middle", "Right", and "Open" (Open as in an application/file manager). :) Hope you know what you are doing, and will enjoy your top app of the day award! :) Long-chain fatty acids and T helper cell differentiation. The ability of T helper

(Th) cells to differentiate into distinct subsets has led to the concept of the "Th1" and "Th2" paradigm. Recently, an alternative concept has gained support: distinct Th cell subsets are not strictly delineated by cytokines, but are dependent on one another as well as on cell surface receptors, adhesion molecules, and cytokines. In this review, we discuss the role of fatty acids in T cell differentiation. Depending on the antigen-presenting cell, Th1 f30f4ceada
